(Moncton, NB – Feb. 10, 2022) — As the world continues to emerge from the two-year pandemic, ASM has announced plans six months in the making for an unprecedented three day international “collaborative job fair” encompassing four continents internationally Feb. 15-17.

The Avenir Centre in Moncton, N.B., joins a worldwide roster of cities taking part in the massive virtual job fair.

Aimed at helping address the global staffing shortage that many companies in a variety of industries face, ASM leadership hopes that the unique global search will surface diverse talent and expand the company’s reach within its local communities and herald the return to the live-entertainment experience stilled by the COVID pandemic.

“The return to live is just what the world needs,” said ASM Global CEO and President Ron Bension. “There’s a thrill, an excitement, that makes this business feel communal for everyone involved. Our hope is that ASM Global Presents: The Next Great Opportunity’ helps ignite that excitement.”

The event will enable venues to fill a wide range of roles from hourly to salaried levels with highly skilled and diverse candidates. The jobs include the areas of operations, business development finance, food a beverage, human resources, sales, marketing, booking, security, guest services, audio visual tech, catering and more.
